

The European Union's General Data Protection Regulation is coming into effect on the 25th of May 2018 in all Member Countries. The Regulation seeks to harmonise the protection of fundamental rights and freedoms of natural persons in respect of processing activities, and free flow and transfer of their personal data.

Dear reader,

INTERNET MANAGER respects your personal data and its usage under this new policy. In light of this change, we wish to inform you of the following certifications and INTERNET MANAGER policies:

- We will never share your personal information without your explicit permission or request.
- You have the right to delete your personal information at any time.
- You have the right to edit your existing information at any time.
- All personal information is protected in an encrypted file system with restricted access and safety measures against data intrusion.

If you want to keep receiving updates ignore this message. If you no longer want to receive emails from us send a mail klaster@klastermorski.com.pl. Following this instruction will automatically unsubscribe you from the list within the next days depending on the given technical conditions and possibilities.